FERGUSON ISSUE SUPREME IN ELECTION

RIGHT TO KEEP TEXAS FROM BEING DOMINATED BY MAN WHO WAS IMPEACHED WHILE IN OFFICE OVERSHADOWS ALL OTHER ISSUES IN PRIMARY

DALLAS, Texas, July 25.—The fight of James H. Ferguson, who was impeached from the governorship of this state, is the supreme issue in the primary election for the office of governor in the fall.

The fact that the winner of the primary will vote in the election for the office of governor is the supreme issue in the primary election for the office of governor in the fall.

Ferguson's only opponent is Robert W. Hobbs, who had been elected lieutenant governor for the last term with Ferguson and who was elected to the gubernatorial chair when Ferguson was impeached.

Although Hobbs had never before appeared in the ranks of the political arena, he is being considered as a serious contender for the office of governor.

Investigations which resulted in the impeachment of Ferguson were conducted by the legislature of the state of Texas.
